Morgan Truck Body Skilled Welding Training Program Rewarding High School Students with Pay, Classroom Credits and Job Offers

Morgan Truck Body's welding training program currently serves five area High Schools that send students to the company's headquarters in Morgantown to pursue a hands-on career in manufacturing. High School Seniors who attend Morgan Truck Body's hands-on, skilled welding training program get paid while earning High School credit for attending daily two-hour classes. Students benefit from a small classroom experience, with up to eight students per program session, lab instruction, training on welding equipment, and access to a Virtual Reality Welding Simulator. High School Seniors who are at least 17 years old can attend Morgan Truck Body's paid welding training program in either the Fall or Spring session.

Participants who are at least 18 years old may be offered employment at the end of the Fall session and earn $23 per hour working part-time until graduation. Students who are offered employment after the Spring session can begin full-time work upon graduation at $23 per hour and be eligible for partial college tuition reimbursement after working full-time for six months.
