Specializing in Group Travel with a Mission to Give Back

H&G Travel Adventures was founded to combine my passion for traveling with family and friends with the spirit of giving back. Traveling allows family and friends time to interact in ways that are difficult to do at home. In a world where technology has taken over our attention, travel gives us a chance to reconnect, strengthen bonds, and create memories to share with future generations. Recently, my kids found a picture from one of the family vacations from my teen years, grandmom with the big hairdo, Aunt Pat with the big glasses and dad with tube socks. Luckily, I was always behind the camera, so the kids couldn't point and say, "Ha, look at mom." It was a night filled with great storytelling and laughter!

Whether it's 50 miles or 3,000 miles, travel offers an opportunity to spend time learning new activities together, immersing yourself in new cultures, or just doing nothing but relaxing and enjoying the people around you. I love to share travel experiences with my grandkids as it gives me an excuse to do all kinds of crazy or childish things that I wouldn't do at home. It's a chance to be adventurous and curious, to learn and experience new things.

Specializing in group travel, H&G Travel Adventures offers travel packages for various groups, including family reunions, grandparents/grandkids, social clubs, corporate retreats & incentives, and any group you want to explore with. You can join one of our pre-planned groups, or we can plan a trip tailored specifically for your group. Either way, a portion of our commission is donated to a non-profit close to your heart, or we can select a deserving charity of our choice.
