

Blanski Energy Management

The Blanski family has been in the mechanical contracting business since 1962. The company was started by Milton Blanski and Stanley Phillips as Blanski & Phillips Mechanical, Inc.

Over the years, the company has specialized in many areas, including plumbing, industrial piping, heating, air conditioning, ductwork fabrication, HVAC service, and portable boiler rentals. The key to the family's business success has always been their commitment to providing quality service and products.

In 1986, Blanski Energy Management, Inc. was formed to provide quality service for HVAC equipment and systems the company has installed. As time passed, Milton Blanski retired and passed the company to James (Jim) Blanski, the second generation. At that point in time, the company became more of a sheet metal fabrication and installation firm and continued to service many types of HVAC systems.

Blanski Energy Management has completed numerous sheet metal projects in, and around Philadelphia since becoming more of a sheet metal company. They were involved with the Please Touch Museum; Samuel Fels High School; Jewish National History Museum; Swarthmore College Dormitory (2); Girard Music Academy; Temple Baptist Renovation; Temple-McGonigle Renovation, and many more. Outside of Philadelphia they have completed projects at Graterford Prison Boiler Plant and School, Northampton Prison Renovation; Yuengling Plant #2; Coatesville 9-10 Center; Lincoln University Science and Cultural Center; (3) Connective Power Plant Projects; and reproductive Science Institute Laboratory and Operating Rooms.

Recently, Jim Blanski, CFO, has semi-retired and Nathan (Nate) Blanski, the third generation, has assumed control of operations as president, and is continuing the company's dedication to providing quality services and products. Blanski Energy Management is currently working on projects at West Chester Science Building; Philaport Vehicle Staging Center; Belmont Behavioral Hospital; Bimbo Bakeries; Solomon Solis Cohen Elementary; and Valley Forge Visitor Center, among many others.

Through all generations the company continues looking out for their customers' best interests by providing education and training with their partner, the Sheet Metal Workers Local Union No. 19, and by financially supporting their pension, and health and welfare funds. In addition, they support local and national charities, including: the Olivet Boys and Girls Club; the Reading Police; PA Professional Firefighters; Mary's Shelter; Wounded Warrior Project, and many others. Blanski Energy Management gives back to the communities in which they operate and hope for a better future for all.
