Steve Ladner Photography

Steve Ladner's journey as a photographer began in college. Though he was not formally trained in photography, photography had been his passion starting with photographing his friends, the streets of New York City where he lived, and the cultural events of the time.

Steve was inspired by the photography he saw in fashion magazines, and after studying what he saw, he knew that he could replicate them in his own style. At its best it was art for him. Model agencies liked his work and sent him models, and he was off and running.

Within months, Steve had a portfolio and got his first professional job shooting for GQ Magazine. Over the next year, he continued to evolve and to develop his style. After a few more fashion magazines saw his work and hired him, he caught on, and he began a 25-year career as a fashion photographer in NYC.

While living in New York City, Steve shot for magazines such as GQ, Harpers Bazaar, Seventeen Magazine, Town and Country, The New York Times Magazine, and advertising campaigns for beauty clients such as Revlon, Almay, Estee Lauder, and Chanel. For the sake of adventure, he moved to Paris, France and spent seven years shooting for fashion clients there including French Vogue and other publications.

In 2009 Steve moved to Chestnut Hill in Philadelphia. He continued to shoot for clients in NYC, CT, and PA. He now lives in Chester Springs, and he feels blessed to live in this beautiful horse country.

For the last 15 years, Steve has focused his talents on creating beautiful portraits — family portraits, environmental portraits, individual and business headshots, as well as architectural and real estate photography. Steve is easy to work with. His sessions are fun and relaxed. He will coach you to be your best.

Steve creates headshots (in essence a type of portrait) that engage, that are insightful and connect to the viewer. Steve will work closely with you to ensure that he understands what you need and what you envision for any project. And as an artist he is personally invested in any project, no matter how big or how small. Steve says that he sees beauty in everyone and everything, and his goal is to bring that out in any person or any subject.

His prices are reasonable and tailored to the needs and expectations of this community. Included in a session (portraits, headshots, or places) is a curated selection of the very best results — high-resolution, fully retouched images. There are no additional charges for the digital files or copies. Customized specifications, prints and coffee table style books are available on request.

Steve's photography website — www.steveladner.com — displays samples of the different photography styles he has mastered. He can be reached at 917.584.4503.
